"But, while in 1914 the purpose was to resist the formidable German push, directed by the emperor in person, and aiming at the conquest of the maritime bases of Calais, Dunkirk and Boulogne, today it is the allies who, inflicting severe losses on them, drive back the enemy on Belgian soil. Exactly what these losses are the English communiques, always moderate in their estimates, undoubtedly give only a faint idea. Mrs. C. A. Heckscher Wetherill of Philadelphia has arrived in Washington to spend the week end with Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins. The wedding of Miss Jane N. Morgan, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, to Mr. George Nichols will take place on Wednesday, November 11, at Matinicock Point. Glen Cove. L. l. Only relatives and a few close friends of both familles will be present at the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception and breakfast.

Miss Morgan made her debut two years ago, but has never shown much interest in social affairs, rather an inclination for the serious things of life. She has been identified with the Red Cross, and did relief work in France last year. She is a granddaughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan.

But, at the same time, it is advisable to note that the new French offensive on the Aisne has cost the enemy, in two days, the loss of several villages and important heights, besides 12,000 prisoners, of whom 200 are officers, and 120 cannons, without counting the large war material, and will render it still more imperative for Germany to transfer more troops to the French front.

Hampers Germany.

"We can therefore conclude that the strength and the continuity of the Anglo-French offensives which have, until this day, prevented Germany from undertaking offensive operations on a large scale on the Russian front, will perhaps restrict the help which Germany could give the Austrian army on the Italian front, up to such time as the situation can be retrieved on this front. "Such is, irrespective of the exact losses inflicted on the enemy and of the tactical advantages secured by the allies, the true import of their successes on the western front."

3-CENT STAMP OF 1876 SURPRISES P. O. OFFICIALS

One of Old Centennial Series of En velopes Passes Through City Office to Philadelphia.

An old three-cent stamped envelope ssued as one of the centennial series of 1876, came through the city post office oday on its way to Philadelphia, and was honored by the post office officials as perfect postage under the new rates which went into effect yesterday. Uncle Sam's postage stamps are alays good. If somebody should put an ncanceled stamp issued even before week.

Ten directors from various sections of the country are in attendance, and the board has under consideration many questions of national importance, among which is the perfecting of cooperation which the league is giving in furnishing plays and entertainments for the thirty-two cantonments. In addition to this co-operation, the league is "doing its bit" by offering $850, in three prizes, for the three best patriotic plays dealing with American subjects. 1876 on a letter it would be all right. But it would cause scarcely more surprise than that old centennial stamped envelope did today.

centennial series was green and white, white lettering, etc., on a green back-ground. The stamp was shield-shaped, with "1776" printed at the top and "1876" printed at the bottom.

In relief at the top was shown a horse and rider, while at the bottom was a view of the railway postal car.

Thousands More Expected.

The men's federated council on employment, co-operating with the Labor Department, met at the District building last night and considered the question of housing the war workers who are coming to the city. Chairman Allan Davis and Commissioner of Immigration Caminetti were the speakers.

The main thing now, it was the consensus of opinion, is to get data as to the rooms that possibly might be used by incomers during the coming months. Officials of the government feel that the war rush on Washington has only begun.
